

User Manual Global Price Reporting Mechanism (GPRM)

The GPRM is a transacted price database. The data is about international transactions of antiretroviral drugs, and not about the prices consumers pay for these medicines. The later are often higher because of tariffs, taxes, transportation, and make-ups during their distribution or lower because of subsidies. This database captures the volumes of transactions, the prices paid, the commercial terms, the sources of information, the country of destination, and the procurement date. All searches can be formulated using the dropdown menus.

Accessing the GPRM?

The GPRM can be accessed at the internet page <http://www.who.int/hiv/amds/price/hdd/>

The layout screen looks like this:

The screenshot shows the WHO Global Price Reporting Mechanism (GPRM) search interface. The header includes the WHO logo and the title "Global Price Reporting Mechanism". Below the header, there are several search criteria fields: "Therapeutic Category", "Drug Name (INN)", "Strength", "Search By" (with radio buttons for "Country", "Region", and "Revenue Category"), "Country" (with a list of available countries: Afghanistan, Albania, Algeria, Andorra), "Dosage form", "Name of manufacturer", "Country of manufacture", "Grant Number", "Date of order since", "Date of order until", and "Show Groups". There are also "Search" and "Reset Parameters" buttons. A note at the bottom states: "Note: * means return all items. You cannot mix * with other text. It does not act as a wildcard character." The version number "2.0.15.1953" is visible in the bottom right corner.

How to get the best information out of the database?

First, choose the therapeutic or commodity category you want information on from the "Therapeutic category" dropdown menu :
(Antiretroviral, anti-TB anti-malaria ...)

Then, enter the search criteria (by country, region, or revenue category, etc...) from the other dropdown menus. Different search criteria can be applied in combination in different therapeutic categories, as illustrated in the examples below. The results of the searches can be exported to an Excel and/or to a pdf files.
