Health workers save lives!

- Maternal survival
- Child survival
- Infant survival

The density of health workers correlates with survival rates, with higher densities leading to higher survival rates. The world health report 2006 - working together for health.