A Word of Gratitude

The list of individuals below served as lead authors, peer reviewers, working group members, consultants, and project associates. The contributions of each person have enabled this application to be developed with international input, and embeds our recommendations in an understanding of some of the complexities of delivering cancer care in many different settings, including those with limited resources. The program would like to offer sincere gratitude to everyone listed below, as well as those who may have assisted them, for their comprehensiveness, timely work, and precision. No authors nor reviewers were financially compensated for their efforts, however we believe and hope that the return on investment will be the many people with increased access to cancer medicines worldwide as a result of this collective effort.
