About the event:
By failing to prioritize investment in core social, health and environmental functions, governments have fallen short of key goals in protecting and promoting collective health and well-being. To address this issue and to drive a conversation on future action, the WHO has developed a knowledge program on Financing Common Goods for Health.

Please join us for the public launch of this program and the corresponding special issue of Health Systems & Reform. Programme to follow.