Food Safety is a Global Public Good

- Critical to food security, nutrition.
- Serious public health issue.
  - 600 million illnesses/year
  - Children bear most of burden
  - Associated with long-term health outcomes
- Significant economic impact.
  - Medical costs, lost productivity
  - Loss of consumer confidence
  - Reduced market access
  - Increased food loss and waste
A Complex Food System

The Well-Traveled Salad.
Do You Know Where Your Food Has Been?

As consumers, many of us fail to recognize that even our domestic and local food supplies are part of a global network. The daily activity of consuming food directly links our health as humans to the health of crops and produce, food animals, and the environments in which they are produced.
A Risk-Based Approach

- Proactive and data-driven
- Grounded in risk analysis
- Systematic and transparent
- Ranks risks based on public health impact
- Prioritizes allocation of resources to manage risk most effectively
- Considers other factors in decision-making (i.e. perception, cost, environmental/market impacts)
- Evaluates efficacy of risk management on continuous basis
- Involves all stakeholders

Assessing and Ranking the Risks
The Population Burden

Every year foodborne diseases cause:

- almost \textbf{in 10} people to fall ill
- \textbf{33 million} healthy life years lost

Foodborne diseases can be deadly, especially in children <5

- \textbf{420 000} deaths
- Children account for almost \textbf{1/3} of deaths from foodborne diseases

Food Safety is a Wicked Problem

- Seemingly intractable with chronic policy failure
- Difficult to Define
- Interdependent and multi-causal
- Sit astride organizational boundaries and responsibilities
- Solutions can lead to unforeseen consequences
- Involves changing behavior
- Socially complex
- No clear solutions
An integrated, holistic, systems approach to food…

- proactive, preventive and anticipatory;
- addresses human, animal and environmental health needs (One Health); and
- delivers sufficient, safe and nutritious food to all.
