Biography for Stephan Harbarth

Stephan Harbarth is associate professor at the University of Geneva Hospitals in Geneva (CH), where he works as infectious diseases physician, hospital epidemiologist and clinical researcher. He has extensive experience in antibiotic stewardship and control of antimicrobial resistance. Dr Harbarth’s work has been published in leading medical journals and garnered several awards. He is active member of the WHO collaborating center on patient safety and provided advice as an external expert with WHO for 15 years.