International Day of Zero Tolerance for Female Genital Mutilation

“Ending FGM is a political decision”

Palais des Nations, Room VIII,
from 9 to 11 am,
6 February 2018

This event is organized on the occasion of the International Day of Zero Tolerance for Female Genital Mutilation to promote a frank and open dialogue with a diverse range of duty-bearers to underscore how political will can be translated into more effective and sustainable actions towards the abandonment of FGM. It is expected that experiences and lessons emerging from this dialogue will provide useful inputs for the upcoming resolution of the Human Rights Council on ending FGM.
