World Day of Remembrance for Road Traffic Victims
Sunday, 17th November 2019
A minute of silence for the millions of people who died or are seriously injured by a road crash and for their relatives during the Decade of Action.
The World Day of Remembrance for Road Traffic Victims is such an opportunity to draw attention to the serious public health problem of present mobility, as well as to pay attention to the need for improvement of post-crash response to avoid secondary traumatization of victims.

And when we talk about road traffic victims we tend to focus our attention on road crashes and we don’t think about exhaust fumes and brake & tyre micro residues that also causes millions of fatal illnesses. Hence, recognising both, is an essential step to take decisive action and change the present paradigm of road mobility.
It is not an isolated problem,
it is a global problem that must be addressed globally.
WORLD DAY OF REMEMBRANCE

ORIGIN OF WORLD DAY

Held on the 3rd Sunday of November each year, this Remembrance Day was set up to highlight the devastation caused by road crashes, give recognition to the suffering and lack of justice experienced by road crash victims, and to thank all those who assist victims in the aftermath of a crash.

Initiated in 1993 by Brigitte Chaudhry MBE (Founder of RoadPeace (UK) and 2nd FEVR President) and observed since 1995 by FEVR (European Federation of Road Traffic Victims) and its member organisations, the World Day of Remembrance was adopted on 26th October 2005 by the United Nations as ‘the appropriate acknowledgement for victims of road traffic crashes and their families’. WHO played a pivotal role in UN’s recognition of the World Day
