Eritrea

Eritrea reporting having a fully developed and costed HRH plan, which it is implementing with donor support to complement the low level of domestic resource allocation. Strategies to improve rural retention of health workers appear not to have yielded the desired results yet, as the country has a very high disparity in urban–rural distribution of health workers.